ABOUT US

Nypanet.com, Inc., sells, installs and continues to service leading-edge voice, disaster recovery, and data communication systems. Over the years, however, as communications technology has advanced and the convergence of voice and data has become more commonplace, nypanet.com has increased its services; offering solutions to meet the growing needs of customers whose communications infrastructure is critical to their business. Using both our internal resources, and those of our partner network, we offer fully converged communications solutions to our valued clientele.

As a leader in enhanced communications technology, nypanet.com strives to develop and deploy reliable, next generation solutions to ensure our clients' competitive advantage in their industry. Nypanet.com offers a managed IP-PBX solution, PressOne. This allows nypanet.com to fully manage a deployed VoIP infrastructure from an off-site NOC ensuring full-availability, remote access, and advanced communications capabilities, to name just a few benefits.

PHILOSOPHY

Nypanet's philosophy is customer centric. Our reputation over the last 25 years attests to an ability to stay in touch with our customers; responding to their needs, and delivering innovative solutions. Nypanet.com strives to exceed its customer's expectations, ensuring timely, pro-active and responsive service, delivered with reliable and dependable products.

In today's competitive marketplace, an organization is constantly faced with the need to keep up, or risk falling behind. Nypanet.com delivers its knowhow based on its years of experience in multiple scenarios, enabling it to provide guaranteed results without risking trial and error. By focusing on our clients' success, nypanet.com ensures a successful implementation, and guarantees that our customer relationships will last for many years.

At nypanet.com, we pride ourselves in finding the right solution for our customers. While many companies guarantee a Return on Investment by replacing your current telecommunications infrastructure, more times than not, they make these guarantees using industry generalizations rather than spending the time to research your organizations requirements and budgets. These assumptions, while appealing, may be inaccurate without proper scrutiny of your company's needs.

Only after gaining an understanding of your business and your organization's requirements, needs and budgetary concerns, will nypanet.com recommend a solution that will benefit you both financially and meet your functional requirement. We believe that the better informed you are, the more likely you will be to trust in nypanet to carry you into the next generation of telecommunications.

For some clients, moving entirely from a traditional PBX to the PressOne Hosted IP Service is not financially feasible but they can envisage immediate benefits from some IP features like branch offices and mobility. In these cases, nypanet.com has developed company specific hybrid and migration solutions whereby companies can keep their existing equipment and simply integrate IP functionality to that same equipment. This allows companies to ramp up to a full VoIP solution as quickly or slowly as they deem reasonable.
